

STREET GRACE™

Grace Lyles
Communications Manager

Grace graduated from Clemson University in 2020 with a Bachelor of Science in Nursing and a certification in Global Health. Post graduation, she began working on Duke University Hospital's Pediatric Cardiac ICU floor. The compassionate drive that informed her pursuit of a nursing career is the same drive that encouraged her to pursue a career transition into non-profit work.

From an early age, Grace knew that her purpose was to be centered on helping others and using her creative gifts to generate tangible change in her communities. Exercising these interests in college, Grace was the Executive Director of an on-campus nonprofit organization that worked to provide essential medical care to children with curable conditions in low-resource countries. She also participated in a service-learning program through Clemson University that focused on providing culturally competent care and education to women and children in underserved communities in Guatemala.

Her passion for helping women and children, combined with her educational background in community and global health, as well as her love for creativity, have both formed her interests and given her the skills necessary to pursue her purpose.

About Street Grace:

Street Grace is a faith-based organization that utilizes evidence-based demand reduction strategies to eradicate the commercial sexual exploitation of children (CSEC) through prevention, protection, policy, and pursuit.

CSEC is sexual activity with a child in exchange for something of value given to the child or a third person.
